

Addressing Grand Challenges

- Grand Challenges are inherently
  - Interdisciplinary, complex
  - Involves not just science and engineering, but also policy, government, and geopolitics
- Plans to tackle grand challenges should include:
  - Systematic training for future scientists and engineers to take on these challenges
  - Strategic support for interdisciplinary research
  - Cultivate innovation

